

Key Observations-

- Hero Motocorp and Infosys are having tough competition as they have equal number of Golden Cross (buys), Death Cross (sells) and holds.
- Eicher Motors has maximum number of holds but least number of Golden Cross, thereby we can say that in future we'll get good returns from it.
- While comparing the Death cross with Golden cross, we infer that Bajaj Motors is taking a lead.
- We can see a consistent performance in TVS Motors, TCS and Infosys.

SUMMARY

Each share of stock represents a unit of ownership in that company. Though TCS and Eicher Motors have same consistency in Golden cross and Death cross performance but still Eicher is taking a lead as it has maximum number of holds among all stocks. Similarly, Hero Motors, Infosys and TVS are consistent performers on board but we will invest in TVS among these three as its holding value is more. Lastly, Bajaj is on the top as its Golden cross is more than Death cross and its holding value is also at par.

CONCLUSION

If we want to invest for long term then we should go for Bajaj Motors.

We should not go with TCS.
